

Puccini's
Madam Butterfly

Sung in an English translation by Amanda Holden

Accompanied by the Mid Wales Opera Chamber Orchestra

Artistic and Musical Director – Nicholas Cleobury

Director – Stephen Barlow

The fated love-story of Cio-Cio San, Madam Butterfly and Pinkerton, the American Naval Officer is one of the most well-loved operas of all time. Puccini merges Western and Eastern music perfectly, bringing to life this tragedy of love across continents and cultures.

Nicholas Cleobury will conduct a superb cast of young singers drawn from the National Opera Companies accompanied by MWO's much praised orchestral ensemble.

With some of the most sumptuous music ever written for the opera stage, including the dramatic soprano aria "One Fine Day", this brand-new production will be an intimate, beautiful and heart-rending experience for opera-goers old and new.
